FALL WEATHER NEAR

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Good old-fashioned fall weather the sunny kind that makes father think about the coal pile and mother about the children's heavy clothes—is due to strike Ohio Sunday night or Monday, according to the United States weather bureau.

Thunder storms and cooler weather are promised for Ohio tonight and Sunday. These storms will be followed by "real fall weather."

The weather bureau today reported snow in Montana and heavy frosts as far south as Wyoming. Much cooler weather was reported this morning in Nebraska, following violent electrical storms.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 10.—Summer was on the wane today, weather bureau officials said, and backed up their statement with formal forecasts of "frost," "colder," "much cooler," and "cooler" for the northern portion of the country.

Temperatures which ranged around freezing or below early today in Montana and Wyoming, will begin to fall tomorrow in the middlewestern states and before the new week gets far underway, there will be a change for the cooler all the way eastward to the Atlantic coast. The decline in temperature will not be so decided

Property Damage Will Run In Millions

HOUSTON, TEX., Sept. 10.—According to telephone information from Bastrop, the Colorado river at that point was up 22 feet at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and still rising. The river had already broken over the banks in low places and it was expected that it will rise at least five or six feet more.

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 10.—The mayor's office at San Antonio at noon today telephoned city hall officials here that San Antonio does not need food or medical help at present. The loss of life was estimated at not more than 100 and the property loss at $5,000,000.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Sept. 10.—With thirty bodies recovered out of an estimated death list placed by some as high as 500 and with a property loss variously estimated at from one to three million dollars, San Antonio early this morning suffered the worst flood in its history.

A cloudburst in the Olmos valley, north of the city, sent a flood of water down the San Antonio river, which joined with flood waters from the Alazan and San Pedro creeks on the west, completely inundated a large part of the business section and several residence sections.

The residence section in which the greatest loss of life occurred is occupied largely by Mexican families.

Troops from Fort Sam Houston are patrolling the city and aiding in rescue work.

The water supply is cut off as is the electric light and telephone power. Estimates of the loss of life reaches as high as 500 by police and fire officials.

Water stood fifteen feet deep in the lobby of the Gunter hotel, which is a block from the river.

The flood reached to the Alamo Plaza on the east which is five blocks from the river.

Before the waters began to recede Saturday morning an area estimated at two miles wide and six miles long, including the larger part of the business district of San Antonio had been swept away in the worst flood in the past thirty years.

Among the buildings damaged are some of the finest in the city.

The Gunter hotel, at Houston and St. Mary's streets, at one time had water standing almost to the mezzanine floor.

The St. Anthony hotel on Travis street, also suffered as well as several smaller hotels in the downtown district.

The Alamo, the "Cradle of Texas Liberty," escaped damage by waters due to its elevation.

San Antonio is a city of about 175,000 people. Besides being the largest city in Texas, it is also the military headquarters for Texas and New Mexico and has a division stationed here.

Troops under Colonel Porter opened headquarters in the federal building shortly after midnight and are patrolling the city and aiding in rescue work.

Power and Traffic Paralyzed

The power house will be out of commission for at least two of three days. There is a partial telephone service. Water service will be cut off for at least 24 hours. Street car service is out off indefinitely.

Both banks of the San Antonio river are strewn with the wreckage of houses. A number of automobiles were swept away. Throughout the night the east and west sides of the city were cut off from each other and it was only at day light that the waters had receded sufficiently to permit crossing by one bridge in the northern part.

Newspaper plants were flooded, but the San Antonio Light succeeded in issuing an extra on a hand press at 6 a. m.

Alarming reports of loss of life in the valley of the San Antonio river south of the city are coming in, but the light is unable to confirm them. It is believed that the greatest loss of life occurred in the Mexican district. Residents in that sector were unable to get out, though aided throughout the night by firemen and police and troops from Fort Sam Houston.

Phil Wright, commissioner of fire and police, stated he believed the loss of life to be "very high." He could give no definite figures. He had just completed a tour of the flooded dis-

MOVIE STAR IS HELD IN DEATH AT A PARTY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Rose (Fatty) Arbuckle, motion picture actor, is to be "held in custody" pending the outcome of the police investigation into the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, following a party in Arbuckle's rooms at the St. Francis hotel here, Acting Captain of Detectives Michael Griffith announced today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—The death of Miss Virginia Rappe, a Los Angeles motion picture actress, in a hospital here yesterday is being investigated today by the police. Miss Rappe was stricken while attending a party Monday night in a hotel suite occupied by Rose (Fatty) Arbuckle.

An autopsy disclosed Miss Rappe died as the result of congested lungs superinduced by peritonitis. Her stomach was sent to a chemist for analysis.

Reports from Los Angeles said Arbuckle, accompanied by his attorney, left Los Angeles for San Francisco this morning by automobile. He is quoted as saying he would assist in the investigation.

Arbuckle in Los Angeles said Miss Rappe came to his apartments to meet a friend of his who wished to model some gowns for her. She had "one or two drinks," he said, after which she became hysterical. Two other women who were callers at the apartments, he declared, looked after Miss Rappe, after which she was taken to another room and placed in the care of a physician. Arbuckle said he had no intimation her illness was serious until informed last night that she was dead.

creek, north of the city. Water from the creek rushed into the San Antonio river and joined the surface water which was pouring into the river from the heavy rain throughout the day in the city proper. The river went out of its banks within a few hours. The water and electric plants are located along the banks of the river and they were put out of business quickly.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, September 10.—Many bodies have been received at the temporary morgues and undertaking parlors. The identified dead are: Mrs. Vinsbinder, initials and residence unknown. Mrs. Emma Gerin, 414 Farnish avenue. Gorin baby, 17 months old. Six women and thirteen children, all Mexican.

and a quart jar that had contained more of the intoxicating liquor. According to the officers the bottles were under a sink and smelled of moonshine, the officers believing that the contents had been poured out just before they arrived.

FIND BOY PRAYING ON HILLTOP

Complaints of citizens living in the vicinity of Mount Hill at the extension of Seventeenth street, that some body was "crying out" in a loud voice as though demented or in trouble led Capt. Lee Startzman to visit the scene for an investigation about ten o'clock Friday night, and what he saw after ascending the hill and making his way for quite a distance through the brush rather stunned the officer. There on knotted knees with his hands clasped and his head uplifted, he found Chester Robinson, the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Robinson of 2207 Ninth street, making his plea to the God above for forgiveness what he was doing there. The youth replied that he was "there praying for himself, not for other people."

STATEN AND HOPKINS WIN TENNIS HONORS

(By Old Timer)

Playing the same consistent brand of tennis which has carried them undefeated through the entire tournament, Staten and Hopkins (Whitaker-Glass) won the city tennis championships in men's doubles this morning by easily defeating Charles and Clifford Taylor (Independent) on the Golf Club court in two straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. The losing team was outclassed by the victors who jumped into the lead from the start.

Fine defensive play brought victory to the Staten and Hopkins combination. As pointed out recently by "Old Timer" their offensive play was their weakest point and they depended on safe returns for capturing almost every game. They garnered most points by forcing their opponents to drive into the net on returns.

Clifford Taylor shone in the service end of the game but splendid receiving by Staten and Hopkins offset his fine work. Charles Taylor was apparently off his usual form, such as he displayed in the semi-final matches Friday with Griffin and Williams, forcing his brother to carry the brunt of the work.

Because of the early hour of play there was only a small attendance, but each good play brought applause from the sidelines.

In the opening set, Staten and Hopkins easily captured the first three games. Taylor and Taylor, evidently not having yet warmed up to the play, in the fourth game the two brothers came back strong, the game going to three several times before Staten and Hopkins won.

Clifford Taylor served in the fifth game and won due to Staten driving the ball out of bounds and into the net. After Staten and Hopkins had gained a commanding lead in the sixth game, the Taylor brothers again carried it to three losing out when the ball was driven into the net twice. The winners romped away with the next game citing them the first set, 6-1.

After a short rest both teams again resumed play. Staten and Hopkins determined to end the match by taking the second set and Taylor and Taylor to send the match to three sets.

Staten started serving like a whirlwind in the first game of what later proved to be the final set. His smashes across the net were hard and accurate, while his returns and those of his partner were placed in such a position as to make difficult handling for the opposition.

The first two games in this set went to the "Champs" with Taylor and Taylor annexing the third game. Staten and Hopkins then wound up the match in brilliant form by taking the next four games from their opponents, winning the set 6-1.

One of the oddities of the match was the fact that neither team won a love game.

Earlier in the tournament during the regular play, Staten and Hopkins defeated Taylor and Taylor, 6-3, 6-3. In both of those sets Taylor brothers won the first three games only to lose when the opposition staged a strong comeback.

Taylor and Taylor won their way into the finals Friday by defeating Griffin and Paul Williams, 6-1, 8-6. Staten and Hopkins earned the right to be the other team in the match for the city championship by defeating James Grice and Tom Williams, 6-4, 6-2.

To some on the side lines it seemed that Taylor and Taylor did not put up anything like the game that they did Friday afternoon, but I have found by long years of playing that "allies," "excuses," etc., amount to but little, and that 99 times out of 100, the better team or the better single player wins. It was so in this case. Staten and Hopkins won because they put up the best brand of tennis in the tournament, and Taylor and Taylor's apparent slump this morning was because they were up against a different kind of opposition from that of yesterday afternoon, and could not meet the emergency.

At that, I am one who believes there are great possibilities in the losing team, and that if they had the opportunity for consistent practice with teams as good as themselves, and better they would be very difficult to beat.

To Staten and Hopkins go the city honors in tennis, and deservedly so. They played the tournament through without disputes of any kind, and little to say one way or the other, smiled when the game was going against them, and came through undefeated.

They likewise need to go up against teams that make them extend themselves if they are to develop all their possibilities.

The interest shown in the game in Portsmouth this year shows that it will never again be allowed to lag in this community. Thanks of all lovers of this clean sport are certainly due to the Bureau of Community Service. It was this organization that took hold of the dilemma at the start of the season and provided the courts necessary to give the players an opportunity. Wholesome recreation and exercise has been provided for at least 400 players in the community as a result, and at least a thousand will be playing next year, while many others have found enjoyment in watching the games.

WILEY STEWART SHOTS BROTHER

An altercation between brothers, sons of M. T. Stewart, former mayor of New Boston, led to a shooting affray in that village about 9:30 o'clock Friday night when Wiley Stewart, 28 years old, shot and seriously wounded his brother, William Stewart, manager of a garage owned by his father. The trouble occurred at the garage and it was during a violent quarrel between the men which led to William ordering his brother to leave that Wiley, it is claimed, drew his revolver and fired, the bullet lodging in the abdomen.

The wounded man was rushed to Hampstead hospital where he spent a restless night and this morning he was placed upon the operating table. The operation disclosed that the intestine had been perforated at one place but the surgeons were unable to locate the bullet. The condition of the patient was somewhat improved Saturday afternoon and it is believed he will recover, barring complications.

The gun user was arrested shortly after the shooting and lodged in the New Boston jail where he is held pending the outcome of the wound inflicted by his act.

The wounded man claimed to the officers that his brother was in a troublesome mood when he came to the garage and started the trouble.

Eight Left In Tournament

Eight players are left in the directors' cup tournament at the Portsmouth Golf club. The players remaining have been matched as follows for the second competitive round: Charles Nodder vs. Floyd Fuller, Marvin Clark vs. O. L. Kuschly, R. B. Wiltsee vs. James Dised, Raymond York vs. Chris Heer. The semi-finals will be played starting Monday and the finals Friday.

MRS. REVARE AND MRS. HYLAND WIN

This morning on the Golf club court Mrs. Harry Revare and Mrs. C. Hyland played off a postponed tennis match with Miss Edna Marting and Mrs. John Lowry, the former team winning in two straight sets, 6-1 and 6-0. This is the first defeat suffered by Miss Marting and Mrs. Lowry, who is taking the place of Miss Lena Hauck. Mrs. Revare and Mrs. Hyland have not been defeated.

In the boys' tournament Friday 11, Flowers defeated Linck, 6-2 and 6-0, eliminating Linck.

BURGLARS CAUGHT

Admitting guilt of attempting to burglarize the Crystal Palace soft drink establishment at 224 Gallia street Friday night, Walter Robinson and Will Jackson, negroes, when brought into Municipal court Saturday, Judge Sprague held them for grand jury action on burglary charges. In default of $300 bond each, the defendants were committed to the county jail.

The men had gained entrance to the place and were helping themselves to the goods from the shelves when discovered by Patrolman Flowers and Merchant, Policeman Leonard Kanward, who were passing through the alley and trying the door, found it unlocked. Stepping inside the building the officers found the men at work and promptly placed them under arrest.

POWER BOAT IN LAKE ERIE BLOWS UP

LAKESIDE, O., September 10.—The power boat Alton blew up in Lake Erie one and one-quarter miles north of Lakeside with 20 men on board at 5:30 this morning. Four of the men were severely injured, but all were rescued after being thrown into the lake.

The launch, which is used in carry pleasure seekers from Lakeside to Sandy Beach during the season at Lakeside, was taking a party of 17 fishermen to Gull Island reef, north of Kelly's Island. Nine row boats were being towed. The explosion resulted when one of the party lighted a match, igniting naphtha which was escaping from one of the tanks.

The injured are Captain Clifford Pettibone, Lakeside, in charge of the boat; Carlton Knight, Lakeside; Perry Geiz, Cleveland, and Charles J. LaLonde, Lakeside. Griz, the pilot, was blown through the cabin into the lake, and others jumped overboard to escape the flames. Coast guards from Marblehead rescued some of the party, while others made their way to the row boats which were being towed by the Alton to the fishing grounds.

Opposed To Decision By Landis

CHICAGO, September 11.—Two construction today were being placed on the unanimous vote of the Chicago building trades council declaring the Landis wage award "unjustifiable" and expressing the "universal dissatisfaction" of the workers over the decision of Judge K. M. Landis as arbitrator in the building trades controversy.

Wage cuts of 10 to 25 percent were made in the Landis decision. Builders and contractors held labor's credit and demand for a rehearing was tantamount to rejection of the award. Others asserted they had not to do its pledge to abide by the decision and termed the action "an acceptance of the der protest."

The declaration of the union held, and the request for a rehearing today was considered a serious setback in the prospective peace in the Chicago building world and the proposed immediate starting of $100,000,000 worth of building and the employment of thousands of workers.

Substantial Gains Made On Exchange

NEW YORK, September 10.—The most active week-end session of the year was witnessed on the stock exchange today when further substantial additions to recent gains were made.

Headings in the first hour exceeded 300,000 shares and this pace was maintained to the buoyant close. Short interests were again severely punished in the upward movement, which ranged from two to five points.

Features of the advance, in which public participation was indicated, included oils, steels, equipments, metals, coppers and leathers. Mexican silver features on the satisfaction outcome of the conference between American oil interests and the Mexican government.

Mexican Petroleum showed a gain of more than five points in the second hour and advanced shares, notably the American Petroleum, rose 2 1/2 points.

German marks sold for less than a cent apiece in the foreign exchange market here today. After opening at 39 cent, they advanced to one cent, which figure represented an overnight decline of .0225 cent.

Cotton Prices Still Climbing

NEW YORK, September 10.—Reports of torrential rains in south Texas intensifying the fear of a low grade as well as a short cotton crop, were followed by active buying and further short recoveries in the market here this morning. COLUMBUS, O., September 10.—The state utilities commission has refused to authorize the Ohio Street Railway Company to abandon street railway service at Chillicothe and Denison, Ohio. # KILL NEGRO SUSPECT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 10.—Patrolman Edgar V. Perry, of the local police department, shot and killed Coudon Howard, 28, a negro, suspected of burglary, at Ninth street and Seven-and-One-Half Alley yesterday morning at 3:45 o'clock.

According to Perry and Patrolman Hawes, who had joined him in the chase of the negro, Howard reached into his hip pocket as he started into the alley and when he did so the officer, believing that he intended to draw a revolver, opened fire in self-defense, striking him in the head. Death was instantaneous.

A search of the body revealed that he had only a screw driver and hammer in his pocket.

Following the attempted robbery at the store of John Twell at 620 Ninth street shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday morning, both Perry and Hawes instituted a search of the neighborhood, in an effort to locate the guilty man.

The shooting of Howard was the outcome of this search. The officers sighted the man on Ninth street and according to their statements he acted suspicious and seemed to be in a hurry. Perry called to him to halt but Howard started running. As he turned into an alley threw his hand to his hip pocket and it was then the officer opened fire believing that the man intended to produce a pistol.

Appointee Known Here

The following from the Daily Citizen of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, of September 10, will be read with interest as Dr. W. L. Jones is well known here, being a son-in-law of Mr. W. L. Liston of 709 Second street:

"News has just reached Beaver Dam from Washington of the appointment of Dr. W. L. Jones as dental referee with the United States Veterans Bureau, formerly the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. The duties of the position will call Dr. Jones to make his residence at Washington at least for the present and possibly later in one of the larger cities which will serve as a center in some of the various districts. From more than a thousand dentists whose names were under consideration, one hundred and forty-seven were selected as eligible, and Dr. Jones was one of the fourteen selected from the eligible list.

Two elements entered into the choice of Dr. Jones for this position—his professional fitness and his fine war record. Although exempt from military service upon the outbreak of the war, Dr. Jones went to Ft. Sheridan and after training there he won a second lieutenant commission in the regular line of service. His professional skill led to his appointment as a first lieutenant in the dental corps. He saw 26 months of service overseas in England and Russia. At the time of the signing of the armistice he had been recommended for a captaincy. This appointment will take from Beaver Dam a fine public spirited citizen. His long residence here has been marked by much public service and a genuine interest in all that in his judgment tended to the public welfare."

Raid On Shanty Boat

A real whiskey distillery was captured Friday by Sheriff DeMont, Constables Erskine and McKee when they raided a shanty boat moored near Dempsey's Crossing, below Hanging Rock. Sheriff DeMont received a telephone call Friday morning and was told that the men were making whiskey on the boat. Sheriff DeMont in company with Constables Erskine and McKee, started for the scene immediately after receiving the word. The three men who were on the boat made a desperate attempt to escape. Two of them succeeded, the other running directly into Constable McKee and was captured.

The officers took possession of the boat and its equipment, towing it to this city, where a group of interested spectators quickly gathered. The still was in full blast when the officers made their appearance. A canny bucket was under the spout from which a good sized stream of "moon" was pouring. About a gallon of liquor was in the bucket. Nine barrels of mash, approximately 500 gallons and a gallon jug of liquor were found on board.—Ironclad.

Complete One Pier Monday

IRONTON, O., September 10.—Pier A at the water's edge in Russell will be the first pier of the bridge over the Ohio here to be completed, and officials of the Devo Co. announced this morning that this pier will be finished completely by Monday night. This pier is to be 100 feet high, while Pier B in the middle of the river will be 110 feet high.

The Wisconsin Bridge and Iron Co. have made the first shipment of iron for the bridge and the second shipment was scheduled to leave their plant at North Milwaukee yesterday. The derrick and hoisting engine of the Wisconsin Co. is on the ground in Russell, and within 10 days the iron work on that side of the river will start.

The first car load of flooring arrived this week. The foundation for the false work for the 200 foot span is being arranged and by the last of this month the piers will be in such shape as to permit the erection of the steel.

Huntington Students Will Be Suspended For Prank

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 10.—The midnight depredations of students and others following the high school commencement last June are not to be glossed over by the board of education. The matter was brought up at a special meeting of the board last evening by Superintendent Wright who recommended "definite and firm action."

On motion of Homer Bell it was ordered that high school students indulged in connection with the affair be suspended until after the court has acted upon the indictments or for the first semester.

In the same connection it was moved by W. T. Toney and adopted that those indicted who were not students be denied all privileges of the senior high school.

There were some 25 indicted for the depredations and eleven of these were high school students. Others were students of Marshall College and still others participants were not of the student bodies.

It was explained by Superintendent Wright that trial in common pleas under the indictments had been continued in July until the October term and that he did not feel the high school students involved should be admitted to enrollment at the opening of the schools with the indictments still hanging over them. "Such vandalism as was committed allegedly by these students and their companions should not be tolerated," asserted Mr. Wright. "Such actions do not represent the spirit nor the wishes of the student body of senior high."

U. B. Sunday School Rallies

Next Sunday is the first Sunday of the new Conference year and all United Brethren of Portsmouth are urged to attend the Sunday School and Church services that they may become familiar with the plan of work for the coming year.

During the summer months the Sunday School has been completely reorganized and Sunday morning the School will be seated according to divisions with the Division Superintendents in charge of their respective departments. All class and department secretaries are urged to be present Sunday as a new card index system of enrollment is to be started at this time. The newly elected enrollment secretaries, Misses Ella Carson and Dolly Bean assisted by the Superintendent and Pastor will have charge of this enrollment work. Four new combination sand tables have been ordered for the Beginners' Department.

ment to make their work interesting during the year. All members of the Sunday school who play musical instruments are asked to bring their instruments Sunday so that steps can be taken towards the reorganization of the Sunday School Orchestra.

During the next two months we are expecting our Sunday school to go forward by leaps and bounds. The general rallying plans as submitted by the General and Conference Sunday School Board of Control will be put into operation by the local school. The following special days will be observed:

September 18, Enrollment Day.
September 25, Promotion Day.
October 2, Initial Rally Day.
October 9, Visitors' Day.
October 16, Men and Boys' Day.
October 23, Women and Girls' Day.
October 30, Church-Wide Rally Day.
November 7, Automobile Day.

AUTO RACE TO START SUNDAY MORNING

A great crowd is expected tomorrow at the first Presbyterian Bible school at the formal beginning of their interesting "Ocean-to-Ocean Auto Race Contest."

Sharp at nine o'clock Clerk of the Course Maurice Cooper will step on the going. Leroy Compton will wave the official checkered flag, and the race is on, to be terminated after eight weeks of a grueling contest. The school has already manifested its intense interest in the struggle, and the rivalry between the different classes is intense. The careful attention to the pleasant little details of the race given by the officials, thus adding to the illusion which young folks so dearly love, has contributed no small part to the fascination which it has already created.

Every member of the school, and every pupil who has ever gone there, and is not now a member of another school, is urged to be present tomorrow morning, to boost the car of his own class. A cordial invitation is extended to all who have no Bible school affiliation to visit the school and have a part in the pleasure of the next eight weeks.

Services Resumed at All Saints'

The Rev. E. Almer Powell has returned from his vacation and services will be held at All Saints' church tomorrow.

There will be no early celebration. Sunday school will meet at 9:30 a. m. and at 10:30 a. m. there will be a choral celebration of the Holy Communion at which the Pastor hopes to meet all communicants.

The evening service will be at 7:30 p. m. All services will be held on Central Standard ("old") time as usual.

TRUANT OFFICER RESIGNS AT BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING

When the Board of Education met last night the resignation of Truant Officer John A. Lloyd was accepted. Appointment of another grade teacher was confirmed and the pay of one janitor was increased.

Mr. Lloyd resigned in order to enter college to study for the ministry. No one has been selected to take the job, although Superintendent Frank Appel expects to name a new man early next week.

Appointment of Miss Blanche DeFeur, P. H. S. graduate, as teacher in the Garfield building, was confirmed. Miss DeFeur takes the place of Miss Ida Davis, who has been transferred to Massie building to take the place of Miss Edna Kiefer, who has been granted a six month's leave of absence on account of ill-health. Miss DeFeur's salary was fixed at $800.

The salary of W. W. Burns, janitor at Garfield building, was increased $5 per month on account of additional rooms at the building this year.

Superintendent Appel was authorized to buy supplies for the school nurse and health department.

A petition from residents of River-view addition, Scholville, asking that some means of conveyance be provided was referred to the committee on Teachers and Text Books and Supp. Appel. The petition says that the children have to walk more than a mile to school and that it is dangerous for them to travel along the pike.

Five trees were granted the use of the high school auditorium for Oct. 26 when they will give a musical concert.

A schedule amounting to $2,474.70 was allowed.

New Boston Gets Next Baptist Meeting

Rev. S. P. Stupp of Wellston was re-elected moderator of the Portsmouth Baptist Association and New Boston was selected as the place of the 1922 meeting when the second and last day's session of the 1921 meeting will be held at Jackson. The 1922 meeting will be held in September will be at the Hummel Baptist church on Pine street, New Boston. A nine-day meeting will be held at Coates in April.

The election of officers held Friday resulted as follows: Moderator, Rev. S. P. Stupp, Wellston; vice-moderator, Rev. L. N. Kayser of Calvary Baptist, Portsmouth; secretary, Rev. Freeman W. Chase, Wheelersburg; treasurer, John Cook, Waits; missionary director, Rev. J. L. Forren, Jackson; Young People's Work director, Herbert Wheeler, Portsmouth; Sunday School Work director, T. D. Smith.

A new position was created in the Association this year and Rev. Freeman W. Chase was selected to fill the position. The work will be that of field secretary, the new work to start October 1st. Rev. Chase who is pastor of Wheelersburg Baptist church will resign his pulpit in order to devote all his time to the new work.

The reports submitted showed a big increase in Baptist work in this association. There are only fourteen churches in the association and last year 255 new members were added to the church rolls. These fourteen

Mystery-Mongers And Wonder-Workers

By John Collins Jackson

The fullest measure of pure spiritual and moral light, which God gives through the sacred Scriptures, comes after we get rid of the superstitious notion that the Bible is largely a book of puzzles, with hidden secret meanings to be discovered by ingenious guesses and fanciful interpretations.

Read authorities in Biblical lore assure us that while there is much of this cryptic literature in the two apocalyptic books, Daniel and Revelation, its purpose ended with the people living when these portions of the book were written. It is impossible to discover now just how all these messages applied to their times, because the conditions which called for them ceased ages ago. They were for the encouragement of God's people, who were then enduring deadly persecutions. They carried the assurance that God had not forsaken them and that if they patiently endured to the end, judgment and justice would yet prevail.

Because of their fees these astrologers had to be expressed in vivid forms, using such types as mythical beasts and birds, dreams and visions, figurative forms of speech which their persecutors could not fathom even so far as we can now do by the light of succeeding history. It was somewhat like the secret code of modern nations—a kind of cipher language for diplomatic purposes. Some of the earliest Christian writers resorted to the same device. But these formulas of Daniel and Revelation belong entirely to the dead past. They had their day, and did their work, and remain only as records of vanished nations and civilizations.

To use the Bible now as a congeries of sacred conundrums and religious riddles, after the manner of the religious almanac-makers, is as ridiculous as it is profitless. All doctrines of times and seasons and dates, for wondrous happenings such as the world has never yet seen, with catastrophic endings of the present order, given by these modern seers and prophets, are mere fables born of their own fertile imagination.

There is not a scintilla of sound reason or sense in them. It is a superstitious assumption that God has given a special revelation to these mystery-mongers and wonder-seekers. Their unliving zeal in the spread of their fables and fancies, beginning in some instances multitudes of followers, is no criterion for deciding the sanity or the permanency of their cult.

Joseph Smith's idle tales of God's revelations to him, growing into the mammoth menace Mormonism presents today, is an illustration of Darwin's famous saying, religiously applied, that the people like to be lulled. Weeds will grow in any soil that produces corn; and much more rapidly. Ignorance, superstition and fanaticism find firm footing and flourish in all these insane forms of Bible exegesis. The only remedy against these excesses, growing out of man's naturally religious nature, is to turn the radiant light of reason into revelation.

So long as fancy usurps the throne of faith, and imagination supersedes common sense in Biblical interpretation, there will arise other Mrs. Modestos to revolutionize the world with such marvellous discoveries from the Bible, as that there is no such thing as pain or evil in the universe; and prophetic Pastor Busters, to overthrow all preceding knowledge by proving that there are millions now living who shall never see death. Great and marvellous are the words of these male or female founders of a faith based on fancy and fabrication! Their tribe will loudly live just so long as reason is divorced from religion. How true is the deduction that there must be a divine reality in the Christian religion, or it would have died long ago from the fungi growing on the Tree of Life.

Alleged "Fly Cop" Held To Grand Jury

When Frank White and Norman Fray, alleged New Boston "fly cops," appeared in Municipal court Saturday to answer to charges of gambling and peddling rums, both waived examination on the advice of their attorney, H. L. Small and were sent to the grand jury by Judge Sprague under $100 bond in each case.

The complaints were filed by Fred Logan, of Sherer Hollow, and the alleged offenses were committed on July 21, when he claims he had a clash with the alleged pretended officers.

The accused men furnished the required bond and were released from custody.

Finally Get A High School For Madison Township Pupils

All efforts to get a high school building for Madison township failing, about 200 residents of that community and parents of children of high school age petitioned the Madison Township school board, the County Superintendent and State Superintendent for a high school and their petition has been granted.

A high school in Madison township will open Monday with S. D. Eckhart in charge. The school will be conducted in the Grange Hall with Mr. Eckhart as the only teacher. The school will be a third grade high school offering a two years course.

During this last spring an effort was made to float a bond issue to build a high school but the electors of the township turned down the proposition.

Dave Bennett president of the Madison township school board deserves much credit for the starting of the school as he has always worked hard to furnish the residents of that community with a high school course in keeping with the progress made in education in that neighborhood.

Committee Named

A committee composed of Charles Hall, chairman, Olin Manning, Gladys Selby, Margaret Armstrong, Albert Brandt, Miss Margaret Ricker and A. K. Wheeler has been named to nominate officers for the Athletic Association of Portsmouth High School. The committee was appointed by Miss Estelle Welby, history teacher at a meeting held in the High School auditorium Thursday. The officers of the Athletic Association make up the High School Athletic council.

The Athletic Association will hold a meeting after school Monday to elect officers.

Where Quality Counts
In Portsmouth, Ohio.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Please, to settle an argument will you tell us what color the blood is in the body before it comes in contact with the air, some say red, some white, some blue.

AN IGNORANT BUNCH. Arterial blood, which comes from the arteries is red. The blood going back to the heart through the veins is blue. It then goes to the lungs and changes from blue to red. I have never seen white blood.

Dear Dolly—As you are so good to help people please help me. I am 18 and going with a boy of 19. Do you think I am too young to keep company? My friend's mother does not want me to go with him and she says everything about him. Dolly I do not care what she says as I love this boy with all my heart and everyone else speaks well of him. Do you think I should quit him or not. I like his mother and would like her better if she liked me. She says her boy is too young to go with the girls. Do you think I should listen to her?

SNOW DRIFT. The boy's mother knows him better than you or his friends, and if I were you I would listen to her advice. She probably knows that he is not old enough to settle down to married life. Then too, he may be her only support and she does not want you to take him away from her.

Dear Dolly—What is a salt glow, and what is it used for?

IGNORANT. A salt glow is rubbing dry salt on the skin. This is done to stimulate the circulation. Sometimes people do this instead of taking a salt bath.

Dear Miss Wise—Do you think it is necessary for a man to stand with his hat off when he is talking with a lady? My wife insists that it is.

OLD TIMER. No, not necessary, if he has first named his hat in greeting her, but a delightful survival of the chivalry of old times. A woman always has a warm spot in her heart for the man who shows her such courtesy.

Miss Dolly Wise—Seven years ago you had a recipe for green tomato mince-meat, in the Times, it called for tomatoes and raisins with spices, sugar, and vinegar, only, if you have such a one now, will you please publish it. I want to tell you how much I enjoy your answers, especially to the married men and women who are crazy about some other than their husbands and wives.

R. M. M. I imagine this is the recipe you want. One peck of green tomatoes, ground fine, drain off juice, put on stove with hot water and boil a few minutes, drain and repeat twice. After draining add one half peck of apples, two pounds of ground raisins, one cup ground suet, four pounds of brown sugar, one tablespoon salt, two tablespoons of cinnamon, one tablespoon of cloves, one tablespoon of nutmeg, one cup vinegar. Cook about one hour. Stir often to prevent sticking to bottom of kettle. Can while hot and seal immediately. Turn upside down and let stand until cold. Then put away for winter use.

Here is another way. One peck of green tomatoes chopped real fine, put on stove and boil slowly for one hour, then add four pounds of sugar, two pounds of seeded raisins, one pint of vinegar, and a package of mixed spices. Put this in jars and seal and it will keep all winter.

Dear Dolly—I am a country girl ready for high school. My parents are not able to pay my board in Portsmouth so I may attend school and I would like to have some good place to work mornings and evenings for my board. If anyone should wish to see me they may secure my name and address from you and I will apply in person.

SCHOOL GIRL. Dear Dolly—Do you know of some woman or girl who would take care of my two children while I work? I would like to have some one in need of a good home that will work for small wages. Would consider a woman with one child.

MRS. L. B. Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me where I can find a boarding place for a small girl of seven years of age? I will pay good money for her board.

MRS. C. H. W. I have this man's name and address.

WOMAN SICK FOUR YEARS

Was Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Steens, Miss.—"I was all run down and nervous with female trouble and my sides pained me so at times that I could hardly walk. I suffered for four years with it. Then I saw your advertisement in the papers and I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger and am able to do most of my housework now. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may see my letter if you care to do so."—Mrs. W. H. Blake, Route 1, Steens, Miss.

How many women, overworked, tired and ailing, keep up the ceaseless treadmill of their daily duties until they are afflicted with female troubles as Mrs. Blake was, and are run down, weak and nervous. But every such woman should be convinced by the many letters like hers which we are constantly publishing, proving beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such troubles, and write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., in regard to their health.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE DISGRUNTLED WIVES MEET. The disgruntled wives club was in high feather when Cherry proudly escorted by Jack, arrived in Bath Wilder's door some few minutes later. For disgruntled wives, the young woman congratulated a shuffling fire certainly belied their name. Even Jack could see this, as he "poked" into the cozy room before leaving.

Cherry was greeted with cheers as she appeared and Beth came forward immediately to do honors to this most welcome guest.

"You sure do bring Faith and Hope into the room with you, Cherry, don't you?" said she as she kissed the smiling girl's rosy cheeks. "We've been waiting most patiently for our fellow conspirator and there's so much to discuss that we just don't know where to begin."

Cherry giggled at this and suggested beginning with a cup of coffee. In the eagerness of the past few days she had come perilously near to forgetting that there were such things in the world as disgruntled wives or any but contented ones like herself.

Still she remembered that there were many other girls in Wellsburg who had not the good fortune to be married to her Ned. And their case was her case, as she had solemnly promised some time ago.

Over their steaming coffee cups the various wives sat and laughed heartily at the jokes and the bits of news that Cherry related them with. As one of them put it, "You certainly don't look as if you had one little thing disturbing you in your married life, Faith."

"Oh, there you make a mistake," answered Cherry, seriously, putting down her cup as she spoke. "I've heaps of things. And she told of her encounter with her mother-in-law some few hours back. The story was greeted with smiles and noddings of the heads and Cherry knew that one and all understood.

"Now then, have you girls finished reading the looks I prescribed for you last week?" she asked sternly. "Beth, did you read every word of Ellen Key's 'Love and Marriage'? Yes? Very good. I hope you understood that brilliant lady's philosophy. And will be able to apply some of it to your own home life?"

"Rose, what did you think of May Sinclair's 'Mary Olivier'?"

At Rose Marshall's appreciative criticism of that book Cherry clapped her hands enthusiastically. "Who ever said that the young wives of Wellsburg were not interested in modern literature?" she asked smiling round at the group. "I'm proud of every one of you. So there."

"Beth and I have been getting along worse than ever, in spite of 'Advice to the Young Wife' that you begged me to read," wailed a tired-eyed little blonde, Harriet Red, sadly. "It seems to get a bit easier and more exacting every day. I don't know how to handle him any more. I'm as tired as he is when he comes home, but he never seems to think so. Judging from the way he acts."

"Give him a vacation," suggested Cherry wisely. "He's run down, nothing could possibly help him or you till he's played for a while. Pack his grip and send him off to the woods for two weeks dear girl."

"Each One Bring One" Rally Day Slogan

Perhaps no congregation of Christians have been able to work up more real enthusiasm and accomplish more real work for the Bible school than the First Christian located at the Corner of Third and Gay streets.

In their big Rally Day tomorrow, they have attempted to carry out the slogan: "EACH ONE BRING ONE," and from reports at a meeting of some of the classes at the church last night, there will be more than double the attendance of last Sunday. Some of those present reported as many as eight or ten who would come with them and no one was without a promise of another. Today the workers are stumping up what they have accomplished and trying to locate some one who has not already promised to be there with someone else. Today and tonight members of the big school will be busy getting together their work and summing up all their hard work, and also rounding up those they had forgotten.

We are also promised a surprise for this evening which will arouse interest in tomorrow's big day. It is not for us to say just what form the surprise will take, but let us give this hint that it would be well to be down the street tonight with both eyes and ears open ready to take in all the night. There'll be some.

On the program we are told will be a solo by James Wilkins, who will visit First Christian tomorrow, while the male chorus will also have some numbers as well as the ladies' quartet. Then added interest will be the fact that Rev. Oakley, back from a month's recuperation, will be there to teach the lesson, and those who know about his ability to handle the lessons will not want to miss it.

If you are not invited to First Christian tomorrow it will be your own fault.

Boy Hit By Horseshoe

Buster Kitchin, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kitchin of 1033 Grandview avenue, suffered a painful injury on the side of the head about 7:30 last evening when he was struck by a horseshoe on one of the Children's Home courts. The child started to run across a court just as a pitcher tossed a shoe. The shoe cut an ugly gash in the scalp, a small artery being severed. Dr. W. A. Quinn took one stitch to close the gash. Norman Kitchin, father of the injured child, is one of the best horseshoe players in the city and he was on the courts at the time of the accident.

Irish Demand For Entry To League Gives American Officials A Surprise

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Eamon De Valera's insistence that the British government grant Ireland a membership in the league of nations as one of the guarantees of autonomy has caused much surprise here where the news was regarded as having a special bearing on America's political situation. The general impression here has been that the Irish were unalterably opposed to the league of nations and that the Americans of Irish descent who in the last campaign left the Democratic party in large numbers because of its espousal of the league were in absolute harmony with the wishes of the leaders in Ireland. In the state of Massachusetts, the Irish were so powerful in the Democratic party that an attempt to endorse the league at a state convention resulted in the absence of most of the Democratic leaders. To the Wilsonian argument that the league of nations would protect Ireland's territorial integrity wherever she obtained independence, the answer was made that the league would put Ireland in chains and force America to help Great Britain in the event of war between Ireland and England. Article Ten was held to be a means of compelling the United States to side with England notwithstanding the insistence of the league's friends that the league was intended to protect the protection of territorial integrity against external aggression only.

America Not Interfering

The news conveyed here from London by the Associated Press that Eamon De Valera wants to be assured that Great Britain will grant Ireland membership in the league of nations as well as the dominion of New Zealand, Australia and South Africa, is interpreted variously here. Government officials of course, are loath to discuss the Irish situation. This correspondent for instance, inquired of the department of state if the United States government were using its good offices either unofficially or officially, formally or informally, in the threatening situation between England and Ireland and the answer came back "no."

Harding Does Not Want to Become Involved

There is no evidence that the Harding administration intends to become involved in any way in the dispute. The reasons for this attitude are supposed to be a feeling that the whole thing is a domestic issue as between different parts of the British empire and that the American government could not afford to do anything which might cause offense to the British government in London. President Wilson took a different view in his prerogatives. He went so far as to discuss the importance of an Irish settlement when Arthur Balfour arrived here in the spring of 1917 as the head of the British war mission. In Paris he endeavored to secure an audience for three American delegates from an Irish organization who wanted to lay the Irish question before the peace conference. The British finally refused the audience but it is a fact that the Washington government used the occasion to discuss with the British the vital need for a settlement of the Irish issues.

Want Irish Peace

But while nothing is being done by the Harding administration it is a fact that everybody views with grave concern the possibility of a rupture between England and Ireland and the hope is uniformly expressed that the latest proposals of the British government will lead to a peace conference at which the matter can be settled satisfactorily to both sides. It is believed that if civil war is renewed in Ireland the British delegates to the conference on armament in Washington may encounter hostile outbursts on the part of Americans of Irish descent some of whom have not hesitated in the past to picket both the White House and the British embassy. On the other hand, a friendly settlement of the Irish controversy bringing Ireland into the league of nations may turn some Americans who have been against the league into a more friendly frame of mind toward that organization and remove one of the pillars of the "irreconcilable" movement, which has thus far kept America from membership in the Geneva organization.

Demanding Damages In Suit

Wesley Euton, administrator, is demanding $10,000 damages from the Norfolk & Western Railway Company in an action instituted in common pleas court Saturday for the death of his father, Charles W. Euton, who, it is claimed, was struck and instantly killed by a train at a crossing near Orway last July. Through Attorney F. T. Moreland, the plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the servants of the defendant in charge of the train in failing to sound whistle or ring bell in keeping with its duty when approaching a crossing.

Filed For Probate

The will of Melvina Abrams, who died recently at her home in this city, was filed for record in the probate court Friday.

Adjudged Delinquents

Chester Clifford, 15, John Walsinger, 14, Edward Walsinger, 12, Willard Craft, 10, and O. Clifford, 13, were adjudged delinquents at their hearing in juvenile court Friday and were made wards of the court by Judge Gilliland. The lads were arrested a week ago by the police for attempting to break into the Breerton soft drink establishment at 823 Gay street.

Suit Dismissed

The parties to the divorce suit of William H. Staten against Arminia J. Staten, having amicably adjusted their difficulties the action was by agreement of both dismissed Saturday according to an approved entry filed in the office of the clerks of courts.

Amounts to General Denial

The answer of the defendant to the damage suit of Henry Arthurs against the N. & W. Railway Company made Saturday through Attorneys Bannan & Bannan, amounts to a general denial. The answer admits that on February 12, 1921, there was a collision between a train operated by the defendant and a motorcycle owned by plaintiff at a crossing at Star Yard and that the motorcycle was damaged, but denies of the negligence complained of and claims the accident was due to the negligence on the part of Arthurs in permitting his vehicle to stall upon the crossing.

CONTESTS WILL BE WAGED FOR THE COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION; JUDGE SPRAGUE HAS OPPOSITION

The names of over four hundred persons were certified to the Board of Education as candidates in the November election before the entry list closed Friday midnight. Clerk John P. Jolley of the election board was fairly bombarded with the sworn declarations of candidates up until a late hour, in which they indicate their desire to contest for the various township, school and village offices in their respective election districts.

With the filing of two "suits" of candidates for members of the county board of education there came to light an effort to "put the kids" under the law. The present county superintendent of schools and one from his position, it is claimed. Three members of the board are to be chosen in November and six candidates certified in. The trio opposed to McGowan includes Joseph H. Brandt, of Lucasville, Anthony Gerlach, of Franklin Furnace and J. Frank Ricker, of Rushtown and entered the race with the avowed intention of replacing him with another man, it is reliably stated. Those favorable to McGowan and who will aid him to retain his position at the head of the county schools in the event of success at the polls are John Violet, of Lucasville; Al Turner, of Nile township and William Brant, of South Webster. Portsmouth voters have no vote for these candidates.

Five candidates certified in for the two members of the Portsmouth Board of Education to be elected. Another contest developed when Attorney H. Stanley McCall filed his declaration as a candidate for Municipal Judge and he will fight it out with William R. Sprague, the present incumbent, who wants to succeed himself.

The complete list of candidates whose names will appear on the official ballot in the various election subdivisions as indicated appears below:

HURT ALL OVER

Texas Lady Couldn't Sit, Stand or Lie With Any Comfort. Says "Cardui Did World of Good."

Bartlett, Texas.—Mrs. Nannie Messer, of Route 3, this place, states: "About three years ago I was in a very critical condition. I had been suffering for some time. To tell how I hurt would be impossible. 'I just hurt all over. I couldn't sit, stand or lie with any comfort, my back, sides and head all gave me a great deal of trouble. 'I was especially bothered with a light swimming in my head. My people were very uneasy about me and sent me to my relatives to see if a change would do me any good. 'I stopped at a sister-in-law's and she being a great believer in Cardui, asked me why I didn't use it. I decided to try it. 'I had only taken a few doses when I felt it would do me good. This gave hope and I used it right along and it did me just a world of good, since which time I have never ceased to praise Cardui.'"

Cardui is for simple female complaints and womanly pains and has been found to benefit in thousands of such cases when not due to malformation or that do not require surgical treatment. Try it. NO-236a

Warranted Service On Westinghouse Batteries

Henry H. Bayerl, local distributor for Westinghouse Batteries announces the factory policy of guaranteeing and maintaining the warranted 18 months factory service on all Westinghouse Batteries. It will be of interest to every motor car owner in this territory regardless of the make of battery owned. This is the factory communication to Mr. Bayerl and all Westinghouse dealers.

- 1-The Westinghouse Union Battery Company has directed the best thought and efforts of its engineering and production departments toward building batteries of uniform excellence in respect to reliability and long life.
- 2-It realizes, however, that when producing any article in large quantity even with the most careful attention to every detail of workmanship and material, there is the possibility that an occasional piece or assembled unit that is not up to the standard of quality, will leave this factory.
- 3-To insure the purchaser of a Westinghouse starting and lighting battery against possible failure to receive full value for money invested in such battery, the Westinghouse Battery Company, through its distributors and their service stations, guarantees eighteen months service, next following the date of purchase by the user, on all standard Westinghouse starting and lighting batteries, without further cost than the original purchase price, except in cases of evident neglect or abuse of the battery by the owner.

Application of Guarantee by Service Stations.

- 4-If at any time during eighteen months from date of purchase by user repairs on battery are necessary, OTHER THAN PLATE RENEWALS, such repairs will be made without cost to the owner; these repairs including jar renewals, case renewals, re-insulation, resealing, etc.
- 5-If at any time during the first NINETY DAYS after purchase of the battery by user, plates require replacing, the owner will be given a new battery free of cost. The new battery should bear the same date stamp as the one which it replaced.
- 6-If at any time between THREE MONTHS AND TWELVE MONTHS from date of purchase by user, the battery requires plate renewals, the battery is to be repaired free of cost to owner.
- 7-If at any time between TWELVE MONTHS AND EIGHTEEN MONTHS from date of purchase by user, the battery requires new plates, the service station should endeavor to sell a new battery on the adjustment basis, that is, the customer pays for the service given by the old battery and receives a new battery with the full eighteen months guarantee. If the owner objects to buying a new battery on this basis the service station will repair the old battery without cost to owner.

- 8-In all cases where free repairs are made on Westinghouse Batteries it is preferable to make such repairs without advising the owner beyond the fact that it needs a recharge. Put a rental battery in his car, make the necessary repairs on his battery, recharge and return battery to owner in good condition, charging the repairs to the Westinghouse Union Battery Company on replacement report.
- 9-The purchase of a new battery by car owner is usually the result of the old battery being pretty well worn out, but added to this, there is frequently the contributing cause of trouble in wiring or generator. In selling a battery to customer the service station should ascertain if the generator is working properly and look over the wiring carefully to see that lines are clear. This can usually be determined when making the final terminal connection by noting that there is no current flowing when the line terminal is touched lightly to the battery terminal. If a spark is produced when making or breaking this contact a short somewhere in the line is indicated.

- 10-However, in some cases this trouble is not found and in a week or ten days the man is back with a discharged battery. In this case we believe it is advantageous to point out to the customer the fact that he has either wiring trouble or generator trouble, that the battery is discharged, and in order to save him trouble you will put a new battery into his car. Either fix up his trouble or advise him to go to a car dealer or starting and lighting service station for repairs. The battery which you remove, which is not over ten days old, to be put on your benches, charged up, touched up with paint and sold as a new battery, without cost to anyone, and will produce a good effect in the customer's mind.

Signed Westinghouse Union Battery Co.

Remember

It does not make any difference what make of battery you are now using, I am always glad to test your battery and fill it with distilled water.

A. B. L. Replies to H. M. Hall, of Wheelersburg

Editor Portsmouth Times:

I see that Rev. Jackson has stirred up the animals by his reasonable views of the Bible. I was afraid he might. Let him and Mr. Hall have it out, between them. I guess Jackson can take care of himself, if he tries. The only fault I find with him is that he doesn't go far enough to suit me. So I want to say a word to Mr. Hall. He has given me the only job I have had since the summer evangelists left Portsmouth.

First, Hall doesn't seem to know the difference between religion and theology. He claims to "defend old fashioned religion," but it is old fashioned theology instead. Jesus made religion to be supreme love for God, and love for one's fellowmen as for one's self. That's an eternal verity. But theology is only man's theories about God and religion. Some of the old fashioned theories are good enough, and some of them are heathenish. Hall has got hold of the wrong set. He is stocked up with the old books, and the market has changed. Hall fabricates the notions of God which made Wesley's devil. It seems to me that Wesley owed apologies to the devil for such a comparison. A god that would send the great majority of the human race to "an everlasting hell of fire and brimstone"—not for any wrong they had done, but only because he was "sinners," and could do as he pleased, and he hadn't "redeemed them or predestinated them to everlasting life," is worse than ordinary people ever imagined the devil to be.

Yet, as Hall well claims, many scholarly men once believed such things. Hall declares that he "represents those who refuse to change their convictions." I believe, he tells me, that there, too, "theology is good. It is the right word. He puts his will where his intelligence and his heart ought to be. It is not a matter of proof, but of prejudice; not of argument, but assumption; not modern scholarship, but stubborn sectarianism; not manhood, but unbelief. Convinced against his will, he's of the same opinion still."

Hall makes some more frank confessions. He says: "Unbelief is no longer agnostic. It declines to be merely ethical. It is no longer atheistic. Infidelity, which was once irreligious and anti-religious, has 'got religion'." Then I say, "Bully for infidelity! Religion is something that has good, old fashioned theology, but not, and never did have, except paganism, religion. Its predestination made the good God to be so bad, that if any man were like that the police would lock him up before night. 'Unbelief' found election and reproduction. 'Predestination' from all eternity, 'the faith in hell not a span long' and lots of other nice things were in this old fashioned theology. No universal love to God, nor freedom of the will human. You can and you can't. You will and you won't. You'll be damned if you do. And you'll be damned if you don't. And scholarly men once taught these things. Instead of such stuff, Hall accuses Jackson of 'naturalism.' Well, that's better than his barbarism. Between the two, I vote for Jackson every time, as my grand-dad did 94 years ago. Hall's boasted 'faith' can do anything—make black white, and wrong right, and a demon a delight. The scholars he follows degrade the Bible just like they do the good God. Hall says they do "not doubt a single book, a single chapter, a single verse." And there again he is right. When Numbers, 31st chapter, makes God command Moses to kill every male among the Midianites for revenge, which would include baby boys also, and kill every woman who had been married, but keep the unmarried ones for themselves, and that they carried off 32,000 virgins that way, as spoils of war, Hall's old fashioned theology accepts that as the "Word of God," just as much as the Lord's prayer, for it is in the Bible. It's all alike, and he refuses to change his convictions on these barbarous doctrines. Verbal inspiration! All perfection! Again, when the book of Joshua tells us times without number, so to speak, that God ordered Joshua to "slay everything that breathes," and that his henchmen faithfully obeyed that command, such atrocious beliefs are just as much "the word of God" Hall thinks, as the teachings of Jesus. But that kind of theology doesn't go at all with sensible people. It needs to get some of what Hall calls "Methodist infidelity's" religion. He also shuns Jackson for emphasizing Man, the human family, in the same sentence with God. If he will hunt up his old books and start into school again next week, he will soon learn that kind of theology doesn't go at all with sensible people. It needs to be taught, that such use of capitals is perfectly proper. Now come back at me, brother Hall. If you enjoy this, I have a lot more rods in pickle for you. Then, "Lay on, Macduff, and cursed be he who first cries, hold, enough!"

A. B. LEVER.

Pirates And Giants In Virtual Tie For First Place

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—For all practical purposes the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates were tied today for first place in the National league, but to the expert baseball mathematician the Pittsburghers were leading by the margin of .002.

It was the victory of the Giants over their Brooklyn rivals yesterday and the lowering of Pittsburgh's colors by the Chicago Cubs that brought on the closeness of the struggle.

Pittsburgh's percentage was .500 by virtue of eighty games won and 80 lost, while New York's standing was .495 on the basis of 83 victories and 84 defeats.

In the American league the Yankees took advantage of their opportunity to better their first place standing by winning from Philadelphia, while the Cleveland were forced to be idle in St. Louis, due to rain. Twelve points separated the pacesetters from the runners-up.

To Play Series With Jackson

SCIOTOVILLE VS. M'DERMOTT AT MILLBROOK

Tomorrow afternoon on the Millbrook diamond the M'Dermott and Sciotoville teams will clash to decide the winner of a three game series which now stands one and one with each team playing once on the other's diamond.

Each team has flatly refused to go to the other's diamond for the third game so arrangements were made to play off the contest tomorrow on Millbrook diamond.

Both teams will use their strongest players in order to bring victory and give the gate receipts for the game to go to the winner this time.

The game is expected to be a tight one and the contest is sure to be a tight one. The M'Dermott and Sciotoville have good pitchers to put in the box and the game is expected to be a real pitchers' battle.

A big crowd is expected on hand to watch the teams fight it out tomorrow.

Scott Allows Two Hits

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Scott held Philadelphia to two hits Friday, Boston winning 2 to 0. No visitor reached second, Bette's single in the sixth and Moore's in the ninth came with two out. The only other run to reach first for Philadelphia was King who was hit with two out in the second, but was caught trying to steal. Bockel knocked in Boston's first run and Powell the second.

CLIMBING DOWN A LITTLE

It seems probable that the recent visit of the crown prince of Japan to Europe is to have far-reaching effect in making him less exclusive than hitherto has been thought good form for the heir to the throne of Nippon.

In former times it was not permitted the ordinary Japanese citizen to so much as gaze on the person of the emperor, so sacred was he esteemed. There has been no democracy in the ruling class of Japan, but it seems that the prince absorbed some new ideas while on his visit, and, seeing that going about in the crowd did not contaminate his royal brethren of Europe, he may decide to do likewise. At least the people are to be permitted to cheer their future ruler when he appears on the streets instead of running and hiding as once was the rule. Possibly the lesson of event in Europe has not been lost on the Nipponese royal house. Other kings once thought that they ruled by divine right and that they could do no wrong, but the rough manner which their subjects adopted to convince them of the error of their beliefs may have been told in the orient and have included a warning to avoid like consequences.

It is well known that the Japanese have ambitions to be like other peoples, not to be thought different. The "sons of heaven" may have observed also that those appointed rulers who were the least exclusive and assumed the least hold the tightest hold on their jobs. At any rate, it is clear that the crown prince learned something on his trip abroad, and that it will be in evidence in more democratic bearing at home; otherwise the imperial ukase permitting the people to look on and cheer him would not have been issued.

FAST AGE; MORE YEARS

REFLECTING on the fastness with which time flies, and particularly on the sunset slope of life, there has been plenty of comfort in the last few years in the reports of new marks for longevity. Centenarians have become comparatively common and men of 50 are spoken of as young. Now comes an officer of the American Insurance Union with the statement that the span of human life has been lengthened four years in the last quarter century, and that within another generation "the allotted three score years and ten will be a thing of the past." And this in spite of the extra hazards which have come with twentieth century progress!

There need be no surprise in it. The fastness principally is in machinery; instead of suffering from the wear and tear of it, humanity, tending in the parlor cars or floating palaces setting new speed marks, tends rather to indolence. Advances in the science of guarding health now effect rescues where formerly death was regarded as certain. At no time did manhood ever show greater hardness than in the World War. An increase in longevity is to be expected naturally.

Besides, the people of the future may look back upon our age as slow just as we do upon the period of only half a century back.

CARUSO'S SUCCESSOR

THERE is much speculation in musical circles in and out of print on the choice of a successor to Caruso. Such discussion is a pleasant and harmless way for the disputants to exhibit their knowledge of the current tenors, but it doesn't mean anything.

Something of the same sort of debate followed the death of Joseph Jefferson. Who would take his place? Who would play Rip and Bob Acres? We know the answer now; nobody plays Rip and Bob Acres. And nobody has taken the place of Richard Mansfield. The mantle of O. Henry has fallen on half a dozen writers of fiction, it did not so much adorn as engulf them.

It is just as futile to seek another Caruso. There was only one and he is gone. Perhaps some day a singer will be similarly honored and admired, but he will not be found as the result of a straw vote among the cognoscenti. He will be acclaimed first by the upper half-centuries, not by the diamond horseshoe and the glib commentators who embroider essays for them.

ONE ESSENTIAL

MANUEL HERRICK, representative in congress from an Oklahoma district, may not have realized that it is scarcely less than a crime for a man to make a fool of himself even though he does it with good intentions. There may be those who will refuse to credit him with laudable purpose in his acts, though giving him the benefit of the doubt leaves him in an enviable position. He may have the belief that beauty contests are affairs to be shunned by young women. He might agree with him in that respect but cannot command his epistolary efforts in his own interest addressed to participants in a contest of that character. Possibly he now realizes where his error of judgment has landed him. Perhaps there is opportunity for reform, though that contemplates the possession of good common sense also. We have been led to expect the west to provide some picturesque figures for the national delegation, but it must be said for the Oklahoman that he is a rare specimen.

The congressional directory advises us that Mr. Herrick is a farmer and specializes in Herrick's Giant Yellow Corn and Copper-faced Hereford cattle. The sketch, which is furnished by the subject himself, also notes that he had few educational advantages. As much might be expected. He may be an expert in corn-growing and in raising cattle. If so, he should return to those endeavors. Many another man who was a success, a one line has proved a failure when he tried something else. Certainly Mr. Herrick should be more efficient in plowing corn on his own farm and feeding his copper-faced cattle than in being a congressman. We cannot expect all representatives in congress to be great men. That would be demanding too much. But it is absolutely essential that a representative should not make himself ridiculous.

Light On The Mighty

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 10.—The time seems to be close at hand when no politician will be a hero to his constituents—when in fact, no public figure, dead or alive, will be a hero to any one who reads.

Instead of considering presidents, senators, diplomats and generals great men, remote and different from ourselves, we will know more about their weaknesses and failings than about any one else's. A certain public man, for example, has impressed the whole world with his dominating manner. He seems to regard himself almost as a god. A certain writer who has studied psychomantics, among other things, writes a piece about him and shows that he is really a timid fellow with an inferiority complex, and that all his lordly manner is a desperate effort to pump up his own courage and make himself believe that he is of some account.

The writer may not be wholly correct, but at least he has offered a plausible theory. Heretofore our public men have been sold to us by campaign oratory and journalism. A voter might easily have read five years ago in the magazines and heard in speeches a million words about leading public men, and have known less about them than he did before he started. The reason was that nearly every word he read or heard and a political bias, he could read an article on the presidential candidate, praising him to the skies, comparing him to Lincoln and Roosevelt and all the other party gods, showing a picture of him with his own children and explaining what a model family man he was, setting him up as nothing less than unmitigated perfection.

With equal ease this man could find articles in which the same presidential candidate was shown up as an incompetent and a fool of the trusts. It would be proved by documents that his great-grandfather was an Indian horse thief and that he himself once went to Atlantic City for a weekend with his kiosk.

A Misinformed Public

What should the voter believe, if a stupid and partisan man would agree with what supported his party, and if an intelligent and open-minded fellow he would believe nothing. He would admit that it was impossible for him to get any real estimate of the men for whom he had to vote, that 98 percent of everything written and said about our public men has been just so much sand in the voter's eye.

There have been a few exceptions, of course. The brilliant journalist, Samuel G. Bayne, wrote a long series of sketches of public men which were distinguished by a satirical and comparatively unbiased point of view. He alleged more than our newspapers' reputation, and politicians feared him as a darker force than the devil. But he was a lone and exceptional figure, and furthermore he was a caricaturist in words rather than a competent analyst of men and events.

The honest and scientific analysis of public men is an art which has come into being within the past few years, and which is just now getting a foothold in this country. Beyond a doubt it derives its strength and its method from the science of psychomantics, however much some of its practitioners may try to deny the fact.

Its most conspicuous example so far is the anonymous book "Mirrors of Washington," which has made a sensation in the Capital City. It is modeled after a similar book, "Mirrors of Downing Street," which has treated the British administration in the same way and achieved a wide popularity in England. It is a series of sketches of American politicians—presidents, ex-presidents, senators and diplomats. The most striking thing about it is that it is evidently quite without political bias. The unknown author of this book sees his subject from the viewpoint of an artist. His only object is to portray and interpret his men—to make you see and understand him. His book has received much adverse criticism as well as much praise. It has been said that in some cases his facts are wrong, and that in others he has received a personal dislike. He also has been blamed for not signing his name to a book which is so sure to be read by a great many people.

An attempt at the truth. But even his detractors admit that he has written a brilliant and interesting book. No more human can ever get at the complete truth about any one. The best he can do is to offer a plausible theory, logical and supported by evidence. This the author of "Mirrors" most effectively does. Out of many such attempts comes the nearest approximation to the truth that we have here. If our public men were constantly subjected to this sort of honest scientific analysis, every voter's mind would finally come to have a clear idea of them.

That is the one thing above all others that the voter needs and in the past has lacked. It has been said a thousand times that in America political life attracted only second-rate men, that the real brains of the country seldom got into his government. Surely one reason for this has been that the real stature and capacity of our political figures has always been hidden. Our political journalism and oratory has been a smoke screen behind which friends and hangers of all sorts have advanced to high positions and have done incalculable harm. A book like "Mirrors," whatever its faults, is a brave attempt to throw a beam of light through this cloud of obscurity, to reveal the true size and nature of some of the strange beings that dwell behind it.

And the same spirit and viewpoint that animates "Mirrors" may be found cropping out in other places. Some of the magazines display a far more critical and detached view of public men than they used to. There is strong reason to believe that a new kind of political journalism is coming into being, and that the old partisan humbug is going to die of its own absurdity and weakness.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A girly, music play finished for the night! The foyer filled in black emptiness. The body of the crowd of life sparkles at the stage entrance in the dark side street. Old Aggie with her basket of cosmetics and eternal set smile is at the curb. Others form their hyacinth-like half-circle to gaze.

First out are stage mothers with their young charges hurrying to subway kiosks. They know the value of sleep. The comedian strolls out in his patch suit and striped collar. He scans the curb for his car. Registers impatience and walks also to the subway. Always the comedian.

A prima donna, suggesting strength and poise, next. A white haired man falls in beside her. Their greeting is incoherent. Her husband, no doubt. Young bloods, whose long slung cars put impatiently at the curb, pace back and forth nervously in immediate evening dress. A swarthy, further person edges up with a whispered query: He bootless at scandalous prices.

The Morning Telegraph arrives. The young bucks snatch them. They know the proverbial ingredients of the copy-editor's breakfast—The Telegraph and a cigarette. Stage hands, electricians and various minor actors in life back of stage pass along and then comes the first group of girls. Life quickly takes its tempo. The air is filled with a pungent perfume.

There are snatches of song, giggles and shouts. "Hello Ted! Where's the car? Irene can't come." Tell you later, in a jam at home. They pile into a limousine. A whirr—and they are off through town to the ribbon-like roads that wind their way to Westchester road houses.

A noted beauty comes through the gridded gateway. Alone. A sober-faced man disengages himself from the crowd. They stand in the shadows. He pleads. She shakes her head. He leaves and when another group comes she joins them. "Got rid of him, Margie?" She nods. "Just bands are awful things," they chorus off they go! A slam of doors. A noise of turning locks. Lights go out one by one. The venerable doorkeeper ambles out, pipe in hand. He scans the clouds, in front of the theatre, vaguely visible in the starlight, is the outline of an electric sign which adumbrates its frivolities of life. Now dead, lustreless and unmoved it hangs a mute prophetic symbol.

A millionaire shot across a side street in an imported car far uptown the other morning. Another car was coming south on Broadway. The millionaire's car hit it and spun it around. Ten feet away a pedestrian lay, face down with his skull crushed in. The millionaire drove with one hand—the other arm being off below the elbow. And he didn't leave a driver's license. The chauffeur of the car that had the right of way was handcuffed and taken to prison. The millionaire roared his heels in a sheriff's office while outsiders' breaths bristled. Such is justice in a big city.

Things have changed considerably down in Texas. Will Hogg, son of a famous Texas governor, was discussing Texas with a choice group of actors and newspapermen in the St. Marks dining room. "When a man reaches for his hip down there now," he said, "you do not know whether it is a threat or a promise."

I see him on the avenue now and then. His face is leathery and the sallow tints of his eyes are shot with threads of red. He puts as he walks, stout fingers hold a large gold-headed cane. He is a sort of anachronistic beam of light with pearl gray curly, big decorated suit and sharp pointed shoes. Twenty years ago, I am told, he was the most notorious of the spendthrift gamblers. His midnight parties to actresses were famous. Now he lives at a Mills Hotel.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

By W. G. SIBLEY

The Sibley Service, Gallipolis, Ohio

Education For Lawyers

The American Bar Association adopted a resolution at its Cincinnati meeting recommending two years of college work and three years in a recognized law school as the minimum requirements for admission to the practice of law. It was unanimously approved by a member who declared college a place largely devoted to social recreation, and that man could become successful lawyers without it. Many men have done this, but we have never known one who did not realize the handicap of insufficient schooling. A lawyer is presumably a learned gentleman, and those who are such without a college start have picked up education in a hard way.

The Ohio Bar Association held its meeting at the same time, and its president argued in favor of examining candidates for admission to the bar in the Bible and Shakespeare, because "the source of all law really is in the Bible, while Shakespeare brings out the follies of the law." This is but a secondary to the educational qualification requirement recommended by the national organization. A lawyer unfamiliar with the Bible and Shakespeare is not liberally educated, to say the least. He needs the wisdom of both to be a competent advisor of and champion in the courts for his clients.

We just on long schooling and training for our physicians who look after our bodily health, inasmuch as most of us are more concerned about our poverty rights and personal liberty than our physical condition, the argument for educated lawyers seems sound.

What Ben Hur Did To Its Author

General Ben Wallace wrote "Ben Hur: A Tale of Christ." In 1880, it enjoyed an extraordinary vogue as a literary performance, and made its author a great deal of money. With the development of moving pictures it became one of the great and profitable features in that line of business also. Gen. Wallace was not only a soldier and writer, but a lawyer, a lecturer, and diplomat as well. He was an infidel when he undertook Ben Hur, and a writer in the Congressionalist, W. E. Lougee, tells an interesting story to absorb of the gods in Hindu mythology. It was supposed to stand at the center of the world and to tower to a height of 80,000 leagues. The sun moon and stars revolved around it, and it was supposed to have been located somewhere north of the Himalayas.

Quaker Saw Him First. The politician who was running for reelection called upon a Quaker family and asked the wife, who came to the door, to see her husband. "Have a seat and my husband will see thee," the Quaker lady responded. The politician waited for several minutes, but the husband did not show up.

Virginia's Claim to Fame

Virginia was termed the mother of states from the great number of states which were carved out of its territory originally included within the name of Virginia, and also being the first settled and oldest of the original thirteen states of the Union. The states created out of what was once Virginia territory are Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. During the Civil War the northwest part of the seceded state, which remained loyal to the Union, was separated from Virginia, and admitted as the Union as a separate state, under the name of West Virginia.
